FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Polysius Corp. acquires A-C Equipment Services Corp.

ATLANTA, GA (May 14, 2007) – Polysius Corp. is pleased to announce that on May 8, 2007, it acquired A-C Equipment Services Corp. as a wholly owned subsidiary. Based in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, A-C has a reputation for excellence among its cement, paper and digester customers. A-C's President, John J. Vitas, Vice President Scott M. Egan, and all other key managers and staff will continue with the company.

Mark S. Terry, President of Polysius, said: "This is an exciting time for both companies as we continue to benefit from our respective strengths in the cement, minerals and related industries. We look forward to realizing even greater success as our complementary resources position us to capitalize on growth opportunities in the coming years. We are delighted to welcome A-C's talented team to the Polysius family."

Terry said A-C will provide an important service component to Polysius' core businesses, as well as a US-based kiln shell fabrication facility that will allow for more flexibility in meeting customers' project requirements.

Polysius Corp., a ThyssenKrupp Technologies company based in Atlanta, draws upon over 140 years of global experience as a leader in the design, supply and installation of cement plants and mineral processing equipment. For more information, visit www.PolysiusUSA.com.
